I need the address of the production environment and a user there...

In case of changing the system code, how do I deploy that code?

the address is <http://indonesia.etbmanager.org>

You are already registered there.

When you have to update the system to production, let me know and I'll contact people there to execute this procedure. It's more complicated since there is another programmer working on the source code there.

I'll make a database backup available for you.
